

ABSTRACT

A new cultivar of Hydrangea named 'LITTLE HONEY' that is characterized by compact spreading habit, white flowers, golden-chartreuse foliage in summer that turns
5 scarlet in fall, and red stem color in winter. In combination these traits set 'LITTLE HONEY' apart from all other existing varieties of Hydrangea known to the inventor.

10

15

20